The McKinley Bill Creating a [illegible] of Discussion—"Jack the Ripper" Again—Horrible Cruelty of Russian Gipsies—Notes and Jottings.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Rosa Siefert, an eight year old girl was decoyed into the suburb of Leipzig to-night by a man who outraged and murdered her. The child's body was terribly mutilated in a manner suggesting the work of "Jack the Ripper."

The socialists have bought the historically famous restaurant at Etfort wherein they have been accustomed to hold their meetings. The price paid was 229,000 marks.

The mystery as to how the various vatican secrets have leaked out for some years past has been solved. An employee of the papal palace, who has just died, confessed in his last hours that he had been in the habit of exchanging gossip with a relative of his who is employed by Premier Crispi as steward. In this way many details of the Pope's daily life as well as occasional items of information as to the official action of the church have become public.

A huge Elswick shipyard, where a number of government contracts are on hand, has been paralized by the strike of workmen against the employment of non-union men.

An Intercessor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—A Herald's City of Guatemala special says: Senor Don Manuel Montufar, who was formerly Guatemalan Secretary of Legation at Washington, and also at Mexico, has been sent by the Guatemalan Government to Washington to confer with the United States State Department in regard to the Barrundia case. It is said here by many that Montufar's mission to the United States is in the joint interests of Guatemala and Minister Mizner, and that he was sent to Washington at the express desire of the latter, who desires to patch up his faux pas in the Barrundia matter.

An Insane Baron.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Baron Gaston Combeen has been arrested for murdering his mother at his chateau near Roeberst, Belgium. He is supposed to be insane.

Inhuman Brutes.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 6.—A piece of horrible cruelty is reported from Kowno. On the right bank of the Niem in a forest near that city, a band of professional beggars was apprehended while engaged in cutting off the leg of a little peasant girl, six years of age, whom they had kidnapped in the neighborhood the same day. The child says she knows they also intended to disfigure her face in order to make her an object of charity when begging. Three members of the gang were caught, but Ivan Romis, who stole the child, has escaped. The band includes two children without tongues, who have presumably been kidnapped. All the members are disfigured.

"HANG HIM," CRIED THE MOB.

Exciting Times in Oklahama Over the Location of the Capital.

OKLAHAMA CITY, Oct. 2.—To-day was one of tremendous excitement in the territorial legislature. The bill for the permanent location of the capital at Oklahama City passed the lower house yesterday. Before action was taken in the upper house to-day, however, a motion in the lower house for reconsideration was adopted. Friends of Speaker Daniels had induced him to sign the bill, and Representative Perry was hurrying over to the upper house with it. When the enemies of the measure discovered this the legislature was turned into a howling mob.

Perry was pursued, and when overtaken in the street some one yelled: "Hang him!" and the proposition was nearly carried into effect. The unfortunate legislator convinced the mob, however, that he had handed the bill to Representative Nesbit, and that gentleman made a wild break down the street, with the mob in full pursuit. Nesbit managed to distance them for four blocks, when his strength gave out and he surrendered. The bill was taken back to the house, and the speaker, in the presence of the governor and other witnesses, erased his signature, saying he had signed the measure under a misapprehension. The United States marshal and Captain Cavanaugh, commanding the United States forces, calmed the excited crowd, which was still demanding punishment for Perry and Nesbit.

SOUTH AMERICAN POLITICS.

Barrillas Makes an Admission Because He Is Amongst Friends.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A Herald's Acapulco, Mexico, letter has been received here by steamer stating that a few days ago Barrillas received a small box. It was supposed, owing to a letter accompanying it, that it had been sent by supporters of Ezeta, and in fear that dynamite might be in it the box was opened with great care, to prevent an explosion. The box disclosed some woman's underclothing, with the head shawl included, the inference being that Barrillas possessed characteristics of timidity supposed to belong to woman, and was lacking in bravery. The box was sent him by citizens of Guatemala who enjoyed Barrillas' situation and thought it a good joke. At a banquet and ball given by Barrillas in honor of the diplomatic corps, Senor Anguiano, secretary of foreign relations, arose to pay a compliment to that body. He started in with an ungrammatical toast, and made admissions not satisfactory to Barrillas, who arose when the toast was made and said he was not in accord with Anguiano, and contradicted the secretary's words, saying that he made war against Salvador the for good of hiscountry, and had accepted peace after he had gained the principle for which he entered upon war.

After the banquet Barrillas joined a party of diplomats and members of cabinet, and said "as I am in a circle of friends I have no necessity of remaining [illegible] I am not satisfied with peace because Ezeta is president of Salvador. There [illegible] republic until they are agreeable to Guatemala. Ayala has seen me and desires to make war on Salvador. He will make war good for my country and I am obliged to look for an excuse to make it." The letter referred to also states that an early revolution is expected in Guatemala.

Loentgerath, Catholic priests from Europe, who arrived at this port on the steamship Belgenland to-day, are detained under the contract labor law. The matter has been referred to the customs authorities and the two priests will be held, pending the decision.

NATIONALISM.

The McKinley Bill Stirring up the Country—Meeting at St. John.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 3.—At the meeting to-night at the rink of 5000 persons were addressed by Mr. Skinner, M. P., Mr. Weldon, M. P., Sir John Macdonald, Sir J. S. T. Thompson, Hon. G. E. Foster and Hon. C. H. Tupper. There was great enthusiasm, and the meeting has an important signification. The principal topic was the McKinley bill. Those present regarded it as a crisis in the history of the Canadian people and advised them to be hopeful and firm. The policy of the Government would be to seek other markets. Canada is now in a position, from the perfection of its system of public works and communication to overcome the crisis which would have been impossible a few years ago. The Government is not responsible for it, but will do all it can to promote amity and freer trade. Sir J. Thompson said that the United States had sought to coerce Canada into annexation. The latter would degrade itself to now surrender even at the cost of all its trade with the Americans. Hon. C. H. Tupper's speech was inspiring while Mr. Foster made a magnificent effort. The Premier received a wonderful ovation. He spoke of the great work of building up the finest system of inland navigation and railways in the world. In times past we might be thought to be begging favors of the United States, now we must look to the British market, to China, Japan, Australia, etc. The refusal of the United States to trade with us would turn to victory. He predicted that shortly the Australian and Atlantic steamship lines would be making of Canada a great British trade thoroughfare independent of the Republic to our south.

THE FOUNDATION STONE

OF ST. ANDREW'S CATHEDRAL, LAID WITH CEREMONY.

[illegible]—The Bishop of Idaho Performs the Impressive Service—Profuse Decorations—A Large Collection Taken.

"The house of the Lord has been well founded upon a firm rock" can now be appropriately said of the new St. Andrew's cathedral. Yesterday afternoon in the presence of a great assemblage of people, Right Rev. Bishop Lootens performed the impressive ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new cathedral which it has for years been the ambition of the Catholic congregation in this city to erect. Grave fears were entertained on Saturday night that the event would have to be postponed on account of the inclemency of the weather, but on the Sabbath morn the clear skies and bright sunlight dispelled the gloomy anticipations, and early in the day active preparations began to celebrate what may be termed the beginning of a new era in the history of the church on Vancouver Island.

THE DECORATIONS

which were under the immediate charge of the Y. M. I., consisted of a great variety of flags and bunting tastefully draped on half finished walls, suspended on ropes above the temporary floor laid for the occasion and entwined above the huge derrick from which the corner stone was suspended ready to be lowered at the proper moment into its permanent position. Quantities of evergreen hid the rough foundations.

At the corner of the building a raised platform had been built, on which was placed a prie dieu for the officiating bishop, also one for Bishop Lemmens, and chairs for the attending clergy. On the main floor were an organ and a large number of seats for the choir and congregation.

THE CORNER STONE

is a mass of fine granite, weighing in its present condition five and one half tons. Its dimensions are 5x5x3 feet, one corner being hewn in the shape termed by stone-masons "the bishop's mitre." It is from Keefer's quarry, Burrard Inlet. There are two polished surfaces to the stone facing respectively on View and Blanchard streets. On the Blanchard street side is carved the words

ERECTED A. D. 1890.
UNDER
RT. REV. BISHOP LEMMENS.

In the top is a cavity about a foot square to hold the copper receptacle in which will be placed manuscripts bearing the names of the reigning Pope, H. M. the Queen, and the Governor-General, a list of the subscribers' names and the amount subscribed up to the present dat, specimens of the coinage of the Dominion, and a copy of the DAILY TIMES containing an account of the proceedings. The copper box will be tightly sealed and covered with a marble slab.

A GREAT CROWD.

As early as two o'clock the people began to assemble, and when the church bell tolled at three o'clock, the hour announced for the ceremony, every available position from which a view of the proceedings could be obtained was occupied by a restless, but good-natured crowd. There were people on the neighboring roofs, men and women standing on tip-toe on building stones and brick piles, men and boys on telegraph poles, and on the scaffolding and walls of the new building. In fact no place, where a glimpse of the ceremony could be obtained, was left unoccupied.

At three o'clock about fifty of the Young Men's Institute No. 85 emerged from the Bishop's palace, and marching two by two took up their position on the main floor, forming a cordon around the place reserved for the priests and choir. Each member wore a handsome new badge, consisting of a crossbar and shield of silver, suspended on a bright red ribbon. On the crossbar is engraved Y.M.I., and on the shield a cross and olive branch. A few moments after their arrival the music of the C Battery band heralded the approach of the clergy, who slowly left the old church, and proceeded along View street. First came the altar boys bearing lighted tapers, followed by Bishops Lootens and Lemmens, and Rev. Fathers Van Nevel, Nicolaye, Durand, Donckele, Sobry and Heynene.

The vestments of the officiating bishop were very rich and handsome. Over his rochet he was vested with amice, alb, girdle, stole, white cope and plain mitre, and in his left hand carried the crosier. Arrived at the corner of the new building

THE CEREMONY.

Began by the choir chanting an antiphon and Psalm lxxxiii, during which the Bishop, wearing his mitre, sprinkled the place where the cross had been placed, with the water that had been blessed by him. The antiphon and psalm being ended, the Bishop standing toward the place sprinkled by him, his mitre being laid aside, offered prayer, and then, standing, blessed the first stone, the congregation joining with the clergy in the responses. Again prayer was offered, and then he sprinkled the stone with holy water and, taking the beautiful silver trowel presented to Bishop Lemmens for use on this occasion, he marked it in each part with the sign of the cross, saying "In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." Which being done he prayed, "Bless, O Lord, this creature of stone, and grant by the invocation of thy Holy Name, that whosoever with a pure mind, shall give aid to the building of this Church may receive health of body and healing of mind. Through Our Lord, Christ. Amen."

The Bishop, having put on his mitre, knelt. Then were said the "Litanies of the Saints," which being ended, the Bishop having laid aside his mitre, rose up, and standing towards the foundation stone again offered prayer. Lime having been provided, and the mason being at hand, the Bishop in his mitre next began, and the choir continued the Antiphon, followed by the Psalm [illegible] stone in the foundation, saying, "In the faith of Jesus Christ we [illegible] this first stone in this foundation: In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, that true faith may flourish here, and the fear of God and brotherly love, and that this place may be devoted to prayer, and to the invocation and praise of the name of the same Jesus Christ, our Lord, who, with the father and Holy Ghost, liveth and reigneth, God, world without end. Amen.

Bishop Lootens then taking his seat, Bishop Lemmens briefly addressed the assemblage. He spoke of Bishop Lootens as the oldest Vancouver Island minister of any denomination, being the first priest ordained in this diocese. In a canoe he came from the American continent, 38 years ago, as a missionary. He said that it must be extremely gratifying to him, indeed he was sure it gave him (Bishop Lootens) great pleasure to perform the solemn service which linked the present with the future, for every effort would be made to make the edifice a monument to Him in whose honor it is to be erected, and a monument to the fair city wherein it stands. He considered it a duty to express his gratitude for the liberality of those who had contributed to the building fund. Since last Sunday over $12,000 had been subscribed, and that it was to be counted an honor to be able to further the work of Almighty God. He did not think it necessary to exhort the people to liberality. He had had substantial proof of their generosity. As the service proceeded a collection would be taken up by the members of the Y. M. I., only those wearing badges being authorized to collect.

Meanwhile the mason had set the stone with lime, and the Bishop sprinkling holy water on the stone, said "Thou shalt sprinkle me with hyssop, and I shall be cleansed; Thou shalt wash me and I shall be made whiter than snow." Psalm l. having been chanted, the Bishop next sprinkled the foundations with holy water, and before going round, he commenced the Antiphon and Psalm xxxvi., which was continued by the choir. Three times in sprinkling the foundations, the Bishop stopped and prayer was offered. On the completion of the sprinkling, the Bishop having returned to the corner stone, began the hymn Veni Creator Spiritus. Having intoned the hymn, the Bishop knelt until the end of the first verse, when rising he stood head uncovered, until the end of the hymn, when he gave the solemn benediction, saying:

"Blessed be the name of the Lord."
Response—Now and forever more.
Our help is in the name of the Lord
The blessing of God Almighty, Father, Son and Holy Ghost, descend upon you and dwell in your hearts forever. Amen.

BISHOP LOOTENS,

who yesterday laid the corner stone of the new Catholic cathedral, is well known to old residents of Victoria. Coming to Vancouver Island as a missionary nearly two score years ago, he may be termed the pioneer clergyman among the pioneers who opened up this country. Appointed to take charge of the San Rafael Orphan Asylum for boys, he spent, in this responsible position, a number of years in California. Since his consecration as Bishop of Idaho, his health has been precarious, and he has retired from active service, residing at present in Victoria. Bishop Lootens is a learned man and a cultured musician.

Bishop Lemmens who has worked so untiringly to bring about the building of this magnificent new church, was consecrated Bishop of Vancouver on the 5th of August 1888. His diocese comprises Vancouver and the adjacent islands and Alaska.

It is expected that the church will be completed about August 1st, 1891, and it will cost when completed in the neighborhood of $80,000. Already $50,000 have been subscribed. The material used in its construction is brick, with cut stone trimmings, and about one-third of the brick work is now finished. The corner stone is laid at the base of the proposed tower, and faces both View and Blanchard streets.

The old church will be utilized for a Sunday school room, and will give accommodation for bazaars and other church entertainments.

THE BARRUNDIA AFFAIR.

Bayard Thinks Mizner Had No Control Over the Fugitive.

A dispatch from Washington City says: Ex-Secretary of State Thomas F. Bayard has been interviewed on the Barrundia matter, and in the course of his remarks said: "I don't wish to be placed in the light of assuming the part of a critic or censor of Minister Mizner. The official statement of the circumstances attending the killing of General Barrundia has not been made public, and facts upon which to base a precise opinion are not at present available. If the occurrences of the affair are correct as reported, it would appear to me that the gravest question Minister Mizner will have to meet will be by what authority did he have to interfere at all and lend his official co-operation to the arrest on shipboard and the removal therefrom of General Barrundia? What right did Minister Mizner have in the matter at all? General Barrundia not being an American citizen, I cannot see what control Minister Mizner could rightfully have over him."

The ex-secretary denied that there was anything similar in this case to that of Gomez, over whom there was some trouble during his administration.

Large lines of new goods in furniture, carpets, glassware, etc., constantly arriving at John Weiler, 51 to 55 Fort street.

THE DESERTER

BY CAPT. CHARLES KING, U. S. A.

Author of "Dunraven Ranch," "The Colonel's Daughter," "Marion's Faith," Etc.: Etc.

CHAPTER XIX.

HE SPRANG UP AND WENT RIGHT OUT WITH ME.

Within the week succeeding the departure of the Rayners and Miss Travers, Lieut. Hayne's brother-in-law and his remarkably attractive sister were with him in garrison and helping him fit up the new quarters which the colonel had rather insisted on his moving into and occupying, even though two unmarried subalterns had to move out and make way for him. This they seemed rather delighted to do. There was prevailing sentiment at Warrener that nothing was too good for Hayne nowadays; and he took all his adulation so quietly and modestly that there was difficulty in telling just how it affected him. Towards those who had known him well in the days of his early service he still maintained a dignity and reserve of manner that kept them at some distance. To others, especially to the youngsters in the —th as well as to those in the Riflers, he unbent entirely, and was frank, unaffected and warm hearted. He seemed to bask in the sunshine of the respect and consideration accorded him on every side. Yet no one could say he seemed happy. Courteous, grave far beyond his years, silent and thoughtful, he impressed them all as a man who had suffered too much ever again to be light hearted. Then it was more than believed he had fallen deeply in love with Nellie Travers; and that explained the rarity and sadness of his smile. To the women he was the centre of intense and romantic interest.

Mrs. Waldron was an object of jealousy because of the priority of her claims to his regard. Mrs. Hurley—the sweet sister who so strongly resembled him—was the recipient of universal attention from both sexes. Hayne and the Hurley's, indeed, would have been invited to several places an evening could they have accepted. And, yet, with it all, Mr. Hayne seemed at times greatly preoccupied. He had a great deal to think of.

To begin with, the widow Clancy had been captured in one of the mining towns, where she had sought refuge, and brought back by the civil authorities, nearly $3,000 in greenbacks having been found in her possession. She had fought like a fury and proved too much for the sheriff's posse when first arrested, and not until three days after her incarceration was the entire amount brought to light. There was no question what ought to be done with it.

Clancy's confession established the fact that almost the entire amount was stolen from Capt. Hull nearly six years before, the night previous to his tragic death at Battle Butte. Mrs. Clancy at first had furiously declared it all a lie; but Waldron's and Billings' precaution in having Clancy's entire story taken down by a notary public and sworn to before him eventually broke her down. She made her miserable, whining admissions to the sheriff's officers in town—the colonel would not have her on the post even as a prisoner—and there she was still held awaiting further disclosures, while little Kate was lovingly cared for at Mrs. Waldron's. Poor old Clancy was buried and on the way to be forgotten.

What proved the hardest problem for the garrison to solve was the fact that, while Mr. Hayne kept several of his old associates at a distance, he had openly offered his hand to Rayner. This was something the Riflers could not account for. The intensity of feeling at the time of the court martial none could forget; the vehemence of his denunciation of the captain was still fresh in the memory of those who heard it. Then there were all those years in which Rayner had continued to crowd him to the wall; and finally there was the almost tragic episode of Buxton's midnight visitation, in which Rayner, willingly or not, had been in attendance. Was it not odd that in the face of all these considerations the first man to whom Mr. Hayne should have offered his hand was Capt. Rayner? Odd indeed! But then only one or two were made acquainted with the full particulars of Clancy's confession, and none had heard Nellie Travers' request. Touched as he was by the sight of Rayner's haggard and trouble-worn face, relieved as he was by Clancy's revelation of the web that had been woven to cover the tracks of the thieves and ensnare the feet of the pursuers, Hayne could not have found it possible to offer his hand; but when he bent over the tiny glove and looked into her soft and brimming eyes at the moment of their parting he could not say no to the one thing she asked of him; it was that if Rayner came to say, "Forgive me," before they left, he would not repel him.

There was one man in garrison whom Hayne cut entirely, and for whom no one felt the faintest sympathy; and that, of course, was Buxton. With Rayner gone he hardly had an associate, though the esprit de corps of the —th prompted the cavalry officers to be civil to him when he appeared at the billiard room. As Mr. Hurley was fond of the game, an element of awkwardness was manifest the first time the young officers appeared at the billiard room with their engineer friend. Hayne had not set foot in such a place for five years, and quietly declined all invitations to take a cue again. It was remembered of him that he played the prettiest game of French carroms of all the officers at the station when he joined the Riflers as a boy. Hurley could only stay a very short time, and the subalterns were doing their best to make it lively for him. Some, indeed showed strong inclination to devote themselves to Mrs. Hurley; but she was too busy with her brother's household affairs to detect [illegible] turned very red and glared at Buxton the first time the two met at the club room, but the bulky captain speedily found cover under which to retire, and never again showed himself in general society until the engineer with the scientific attainments as a boxer, as well as road builder was safely out of the post.

And yet there came a day very soon when Mr. Hayne wished that he could go to Buxton's quarters. He had in no wise changed his opinion of the man himself, But the Rayners had not been gone a fortnight before Mrs. Buxton began to tell the ladies of the charming letters she was receiving from Mrs. Rayner—all about their travels. There were many things he long to know, yet could not ask.

There came to him a long and sorrowful letter from the captain himself, but beyond a few matters relating to the company and the transfer of his property, it was all given up to a recapitulation of the troubles of the past few years and to renewed expression of his deep regret. Of the ladies he made but casual mention. They were journeying down the Mississippi on one of its big steamers when he wrote, and Mrs. Rayner was able to enjoy the novelties of the trip, and was getting better, but still required careful nursing. Miss Travers was devoted to her. They would go to New Orleans, then possibly by sea around to New York arriving there about the 5th of June; that, however, was undecided. He closed by asking Hayne to remind Maj. Waldron that his copy of Clancy's confession had not yet reached him, and he was anxious to see it full.

"The one thing lacking to complete the chain is Gower," said the major as he looked up over his spectacles. "It would be difficult to tell what became of him. We get tidings of most of the deserters who were as prominent among the men as he appears to have been; but I have made inquiry, and so has the colonel, and not a word has ever been heard of him since the night he appeared before Mrs. Clancy and handed over the money to her. He was a strange character, from all accounts, and must have had some conscience after all. Do you remember him at all, Hayne?"

"I remember him well. We made the march from the Big Horn over to Battle Butte together, and he was a soldier one could not help remarking. Of course I never had anything to say to him, but we heard he was an expert gambler when the troop was over there at Miners' Delight."

"Of course his testimony isn't necessary. Clancy and his wife between them have cleared you, after burying you alive five years. But nothing but his story could explain his singular conduct—planning the whole robbery, executing it with all the skill of a professional jailbird, deserting and covering several hundred miles with his plunder, then daring to go to the old fort, find Mrs. Clancy, and surrender every cent the moment he heard of your trial. What a fiend that woman was! No wonder she drove Clancy to drink!"

"Will you send copies of her admission with Clancy's affidavits?" asked Hayne.

"Here they are in full," answered the major. "The colonel talks of having them printed and strewn broadcast as warning against 'snap judgment' and too confident testimony in future."

Divested of the legal encumbrances with which documents are usually weighted, Clancy's story ran substantially as follows:

"I was sergeant in K troop, and Gower was in F. We had been stationed together six months or so when ordered out on the Indian campaign that summer. I was dead broke. All my money was gone, and my wife kept bothering me for more. I owed a lot of money around headquarters, too, and Gower knew it, and sometimes asked me what I was going to do when we got back from the campaign. We were not good friends, him and I. There was money dealing between us, and then there was talk about Mrs. Clancy fancying him too much. The paymaster came up with a strong escort and paid off the boys late in October, just as the expedition was breaking up and, going for home, and all the officers and men got four months' pay. There was Lieut. Crane and twenty men of F troop out on a scout, but the lieutenant had left his pay rolls with Capt. Hull, and the men had all signed before they started, and so the captain he drew it all for them and put each man's money in an envelope marked with his name and the lieutenant's too, and then crowded it all into some bigger envelopes. I was there where I could see it all, and Gower was watching him close. 'It's a big pile the captain's got,' says he. 'I'd like to be a road agent and nab him.' When I told him it couldn't be over eleven hundred dollars, he says, 'That's only part. He has his own pay and six hundred dollars company fund, and a wad of greenbacks he's been carryin' around all summer. It's nigh on to four thousand dollars he's got in his saddle bags this day.'

"And that night, instead of Lieut. Crane's coming back, he sent word he had found the trail of a big band of Indians, and the whole crowd went in pursuit. There was four companies of infantry, under Capt. Rayner, and F and K troops—what was left of them—that were ordered to stay by the wagons and bring them safely down; and we started with them over towards Battle Butte, keeping south of the way the regiment had gone to follow Mr. Crane. And the very next day Capt. Rayner got orders to bring his battalion to the river and get on the boat, while the wagons kept on down the bank with us to guard them. And Mr. Hayne was acting quartermaster, and he stayed with us, and him and Capt. Hull was together a good deal. There was some trouble, we heard, because Capt. Rayner thought another officer should have been made quartermaster and Mr. Hayne should have stayed with his company, and they had some words; but Capt. Hull gave Mr. Hayne a horse and seemed to keep him with him; and that night, in sight of Battle Butte, the steamboat was out of sight ahead when we went into camp, and I was sergeant of the guard and had my fire near the captain's tent, and twice in the evening Gower came to me and said now was the time to lay hands on the money and skip. At last he says to me, 'You are flat broke, and they'll all be down on you when you get back to the post. No man in America wants five hundred dollars more than you do. I'll give you five hundred in one hour from now if you'll get the captain out of his tent for half an hour.' Almost everybody was asleep then; the captain was, and so was Mr. Hayne, and he went on to tell me how he could do it. He'd been watching the captain. It made such a big bundle, did the money, in all the separate envelopes that he had done it all up different—made a memorandum of the amount due each man, and packed the greenbacks all together in one solid pile—his own money, the lieutenant's and the men's—done it up in paper and tied it firmly and put big blotches of green sealing wax on it and sealed them with the seal on his watch chain. Says Gower, 'You get the captain out, as I tell you, and I'll slip right in, get the money, stuff some other paper with a few ones and twos in the package; his seal, his watch and everything is there in the saddle bags under his head, and I can reseal and replace it in five minutes, and he'll never suspect the loss until the command all gets together again next week. By that time I'll be three hundred miles away. Everybody will say 'twas Gower that robbed him, and you with your five hundred will never be suspected.' I asked him how could he expect the captain to go and leave so much money in his bags with no one to guard it; and he said he'd bet on it if I did it right. The captain had had no luck tracking Indians that summer, and the regiment was laughing at him. He knew they were scattering every which way now, and was eager to strike them. All I had to do was to creep in excited like, wake him up sudden, and tell him I was sure I had heard an Indian drum and their scalp dance song out beyond the pickets—that they were over towards Battle Butte, and he could hear them if he would come out on the river bank. 'He'd go quick,' says Gower, 'and think of nothing.'

EXPLORING ST. ELIAS.

Professor Isaac C. Russell Talks About his Explorations in the Land of Snow.

The St. Elias expedition of the Nat- [illegible] en. The party consisted of Mr. Russell, the geologist, who is a member of the United States geological survey; Mr. Mark B. Kerr the topographer, also a member of the United States geological survey; Mr. J. H. Christy, the foreman, of Seattle; and Mr. W. L. Lindsley, Mr. S. L. Doney, Mr. Thomas Starny, Mr. Thomas White, Mr. W. Partridge and Mr. J. H. Krumback. All of them with the exception of Mr. Doney, are from Seattle.

They started June 17th on the Queen. After making the regular trip of the Alaskan tourist's, they started from Sitka in the United States naval vessel Pinta, and went to Yakutat bay, some 425 miles further on. Going to the head of the bay in canoes, they set out westward for Mount St. Elias.

"The expedition," said Mr. Russell to a reporter, "was very successful. Our purpose was to get geological information, to study the glaciers and make a topographical map of this unsurveyed and unknown region. We succeeded in getting material for a map of 1,000 square miles, and we took by angulation the height of all the peaks in the region.

"After going back three miles from the shore line of Yakutat Bay we found a country absolutely uninhabited. There was not a trace of human being to be seen on any side, not a sign that any man had been there. We spent 20 days in going up through this country to the timber line on Mount St. Elias, and thirty-five days above the snow line.

"The foot of the mountain was heavily timbered with spruce and a very dense undergrowth, but 1,500 feet up vegetation ceases. We saw but little game, though there are a few bear. In fact, nothing to eat is there except a few berries in the fall. The climate is extremely disagreeable, being damp and rainy, or rather snowy up where we were. But we paid no attention whatever to the rain and snow, pushing right on whether they fell or not. Of course, storms would interfere with our surveying, but when it came to marching we allowed no difference to be made between fair weather and foul. The snow up there was six feet deep, and the worst of all was that it was very soft. So we simply had to flounder or wallow through it. The weather was not cold, the temperature being usually about fifty degrees in the daytime.

"We discovered that the mountains are not nearly so high as they are generally supposed to be. Mount St. Elias is set down at 19,500 feet, but its summit is less than 14,000 feet above the ocean level. Mount Cook and Mount Vancouver are reputed to be some 16,000 feet high, and yet they are about 10,000 feet. We named the various ranges and peaks there. In honor of the Seattle men who did their part so well in the exposition we gave the title "Mount Seattle" to a bold, triangular, pure white peak, a beautiful mountain near the head of Yakutat bay. It is east of Mount Vancouver, and the base is within two or three miles of the shore. The summit rises 10,000 feet into the air. The other names were mostly for the older American geologists. Mount Hubbard, near Mount Seattle at the head of Yakutat bay, was for Gardiner Hubbard, president of the National Geographical Society. Mount Dalton was for the famous frontiersman, but with these exceptions the names were for the dead. A rugged peak was called Hitchcock, for the late Professor Hitchcock, state geologist of Massachusetts; Mount Rogers for a former Pennsylvania state geologist; Mount Newton for Henry Newton. One glacier was named after Archibald Morrow.

"I have visited the glaciers of Switzerland and New Zealand, but there is nothing there to compare with the glaciers in this Alaska region about Mount St. Elias. The only glaciers equal to them on this continent are in Greenland. We took a number of observations, the results of which will be published, with all the other material, in my reports. One huge glacier on the southern base of St. Elias is about twenty miles by fifty, thus covering 1000 square miles.

"We tried the ascent of Mount St. Elias but were driven back by the snow. Once when the party turned back to one of the lower camps for provisions, I pushed forward to the uppermost camp. Then the snow shut down on us and it was six days before they could get to me, or I to them. Mr. Kerr was cut off from us by snow, and for three days he was out on the glacier without fire or food; but he did not suffer any permanent impairment. Two attempts to scale the Elias peak were stopped by snow. As September came on the snow storms were more frequent, the snow line slowly crept down the mountain sides and we were literally forced out of the country.

TEN THOUSAND DOCKERS

Advised to Lay By Money for the Inevitable Rainy Day.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—A meeting of 10,000 dockmen was held at Mile-End last night. The meeting was addressed by delegates to the dockers' congress, just closing. John Burns was one of the principal speakers. He talked very plainly to the men and told them that it depended upon themselves whether the improvement wrought by the union in their wages and hours was to permanently benefit them or not. He advised them to stop drinking and gambling, and to save a little money for a rainy day. He was much applauded.

ARTESIAN WELLS.

The scene of the Government's well-boring operations is situate on the line of the Canadian Pacific railway, at a point about 325 miles distant from Victoria. The postal arrangements between the two places are perfect, and there is an excellent telegraphic service. For all, however, that it is possible for the acting Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works to [illegible] the boring going on at Dick's station and vicinity as he was with the goings on at Wellington in August last, he is only able to impart the vague information that water had been struck at a depth of 500 feet. We are not told whether the well is a flowing one or not. Water has been struck, and that is all there is to it. Considering the acting C. C. of L. & W.'s "gingerly" treatment of the subject, we are afraid that artesian water has not yet been struck. If such had been the case the acting C. C. of L. & W. would have brayed loudly. The Colonist would have uttered no faint, uncertain sound in the matter. If, however, the well should prove to be a flowing one, we join with the Colonist in congratulating the Government, tardy as have been their operations. We shall, however, take the liberty to point out that very little credit is due the Government or the Government press in respect to the prosecution of this well-boring enterprise. Languid does not begin to express the character of the Government's movements in pushing operations, while as for the Government press, it has either damned the scheme with faint praise or opposed it straight out and out. The time was when the Vancouver News actually undertook to justify the dilatory action of the Government by declaring that the game was not worth the candle. The truth of the matter is, well-boring operations would have been suspended but for the goadings of the TIMES. The TIMES' "feeble wit and asinine gabble," was so potent that the Government did not dare to abandon operations. If artesian water has been struck Yale District has the TIMES to thank for it, and not the Government.

"AT IT AGAIN."

The position of the Colonist on the question of responsibility now in dispute between the Department of Education and the Victoria Board of School Trustees, is more amusing than a negro minstrel performance, although the "arguments" of the editor are scarcely as edifying or instructive as the stale jokes of the grinning "end man." It is several months since Rev. Mr. MCLEOD delivered his sermon on corporal punishment in the schools, which sermon was published in the columns of the Colonist at the request of Mr. ROBSON. That sermon, it will be remembered, caused a great deal of trouble and eventuated in the removal of Mr. HALLIDAY, principal of the public school, who was convicted of bearing false witness against a fellow teacher. The evidence upon which HALLIDAY was finally convicted was the original "WINSBY" letter, a copy of which the trustees had authenticated by a notary. This act of the trustees was unquestionably in the interest of the schools, and in incurring an indebtedness of five dollars for the purpose of fastening upon Mr. HALLIDAY the crime of tale-bearing, and at the same time meeting the charges against Miss CAMERON, the trustees were clearly acting within their legal power. Who but a fool or JOHN ROBSON dare say that this account of five dollars ought not to be paid by the Government—that it should be paid by trustees out of their own pockets? Has the Colonist ever said so? Has the "organ" ever referred to the subject at all? Has it ever defended the Government or condemned the trustees on this question? Never. It has been considerately and profoundly silent. It dare not say the trustees did wrong, for it knows that they did right, and it dare not say that the Government did right, because it knows the Premier made an egregious fool of himself, and that in this dispute he has neither the support of his cabinet nor of his party. The organ consequently takes refuge in silence, and not a single line has appeared in its editorial columns approving of the Government's action or condemning the trustees. Now, what does this silence mean? Does it not say more emphatically than words that the "organ" is not attuned to accompany the leader, and that rather than cause a discord the organ player refuses to touch the keys.

But if the Colonist cannot approve of ROBSON'S repudiation of the $5 account, it possesses sufficient subserviency to defend the repudiator. And, although it cannot, without grave apprehensions as to the result, look upon the rocks ahead of the educational ship, it has enough disloyalty to self and to the educational system of the province to be loyal to the man who has control of the advertising patronage with which he buys unprincipled newspapers. Observe the "plan of campaign"—the line of defence. The organ talks about "abuse" and "vilification" to the extent of half a column, but says not one word about the cause, or the origin, of the alleged "abuse."

It concludes with a misrepresentation as follows.

After savagely denouncing the Hon. JOHN ROBSON, through a column and a half, the writer ends up by charging him with having expended a sum between five and ten dollars to purchase chairs for the lieutenant-governor and Mrs. NELSON to sit in while they witnessed the examination of the central school. [illegible]

It was pointed out that if the expenditure of from five to ten dollars for the use of chairs, which was sanctioned by the auditor and paid by the Government, was right and justifiable, the expenditure of five dollars for a copy of the "WINSBY letter" ought to have been paid on the same general principle. We condemned neither expenditure. As a matter of fact we approve of both.

We invite our contemporary to tell its readers what [illegible] about the "WINSBY" letter, the five dollar account, the Government repudiation thereof, and the course which the trustees should pursue under the circumstances. Without prevarication now, Mr. Colonist, come to the point.

"HOPE TOLD A FLATTERING TALE."

Now that the MCKINLEY bill is become law, money is being invested in the tin plate industry, which when established will employ 50,000 people. These 50,000 tin workers, says the S. F. Call, will be new consumers, and will increase the demand for the products of the West. The duty on tin plate amounts to $20,000,000 a year, and it is urged by protectionists that this sum had as well be expended in the States as elsewhere. But the question arises in this connection, who gets the benefit of this $20,000,000 a year? The beneficiaries are the tin manufacturers plus their 50,000 employees. The burdens of the people are not lessened, but rather increased, that a syndicate of tin manufacturers may get rich, and that 50,000 persons may be given employment. If this is not altogether too much sugar for a cent, we don't know what is. If the prospect was that so soon as the tin plate industry was well started prices would fall; that after the expiration of a few years the home manufacturers would be able to compete with the foreign made article, a tax on tin plate imports of $20,000,000 a year would be justified. But this infant tin industry will never be held to be anything else than an infant. When a few years hence the proposition is made that it is time for free trade in tin plate, the manufacturers will still complain that their industry is not yet able to walk alone, and they will expend thousands, even millions, in an effort to persuade politicians that they are telling the truth. The duty of $20,000,000 a year on tin plate means approximately that amount in the hands of the tin manufacturers, and it is impossible to make anything else of it.

There is a provision in the MCKINLEY bill that if within five years after the new tariff goes into effect one-third of the home demand is not supplied by home manufacturers, the duties on tin plate will be removed. Does anybody suppose that this will be done if protection five years hence still obtains in the United States? Not at all. The tin plate manufacturers, grown rich, will be in a position to either persuade or bully legislators to declare that the removal of the tin plate duties is inexpedient.

CRIMINAL CHARACTERISTICS.

Concerning crime and criminal characteristics there was a curious law in operation during the Middle Ages, namely, that when two were suspected of crime, the uglier one was adjudged the guilty party. And this raises an interesting question as to the extent people are influenced by physiognomy in judging of criminality. Popular maxims credit certain individuals with criminal proclivities. The Roman says: "Little beard and little color, there is nothing worse under heaven." Among the French it is: "God preserve us from a beardless man." In Venice, "trust not the woman with a man's voice." How far there is anything like a conscience belonging to criminals becomes difficult to determine. Though we may be told a thousand times that a convicted man who has often committed crimes has no conscience, or a dead conscience, that is no reason why we should not try to awaken it. What GALL writes is terrible: "If criminals have remorse, it is that they have not committed more crimes, or that they have let themselves be caught." If DOSTOIEFFSKY is to be considered truthful, he gives this horrible speech of a parricide: "Take my father, for example: he never was ill up to the day of his death." Dr. WEY, of Elmira, whose experience is great, writes: "Scenes of heartrending despair are hardly ever witnessed among prisoners. Their sleep is disturbed by no uneasy dreams, but is easy and sound; their appetites also are excellent." DESPINE'S conclusion in regard to criminals, is that "the two great physical conditions for crime are moral insensibility and perversity, with two accessory moral anomalies, imprudence and lack of foresight." The unblushing avowal of crimes is what surprises. WAINWRIGHT will always be considered as the type of the murderer with literary abilities. There can be no question but that he poisoned three persons. When asked why he had murdered HELEN ABERCROMBIE, his reply was "Upon my soul I don't know, unless it was because she had such thick legs." There [illegible] be no reason to be accused of irreverence for the statement, that criminals can have no sense of what is religion, but only of its forms. Naples is almost the most religious city in Europe, and the most criminal, the numbers of murders being 16 in the 100,000, while in Italy it is generally 8 to 12. "A Russian peasant," Mr. KENNAN writes, "may be a highway robber or murderer, but he continues nevertheless, to say his prayers." SISMONDI wrote bitterly of Italian sacrilege, and in a recent work of MARRO'S Criminality in the Province of Naples, 1889, he cites the case of a man of 60, imprisoned for an infamous crime, who was "much scandalized at the irreligious talk of some of his companions, and remarked: 'I do not murder [illegible] evening I say my prayers.'" Emotional instability, if we look at the matter in the spotlight of reason may account for the many last conversions. Infidelity is rare, or at least criminals do not often declare themselves as atheists. Of 28,351 English prisoners, only 57 described themselves as atheists. In the chapter on the treatment of the criminal, this vast and complicated question finds in Mr. ELLIS an able exponent. As to capital punishment, there can be but little doubt that it is dying out. "Whether its complete extinction is altogether a matter for rejoicing is a question concerning which there is not complete unanimity among those whose opinions carry the most weight." If we do not extinguish life for murder, then we must substitute something which will afford an equal protection to society. "It should never be possible for a Duc de MONTAUSIER to say to the King, who finally ordered the beheading of a man after he had committed his twentieth murder, 'This man has only committed one murder, the first; and it is you who, by letting him live, have committed the other nineteen.'" One social misfortune, which inclines one to believe that dementia is contagious, is the false emotional sympathy indulged in in regard to criminals. It is at its worst in the United States. The origin of it all lies in morbid curiosity. As Mr. ELLIS so well describes it: "The minute details of every horrible crime are to-day known at once by every child in remotest villages. The recital of it stirs up all the morbid sedimentary instincts in weak and ill-balanced natures, and whenever a large community grows excited over a crime, it becomes directly responsible for a whole crop of crimes, especially among young persons and children."

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

With the conviction of BIRCHALL, and the prospect of his being hanged in November, the question of capital punishment, if not being revived exactly, at least takes an additional interest. Dr. SHRADY, discussing the matter in the Arena, pronounces against capital punishment. He holds that the worst use you can put a man to is to hang him. Let him be shut up in prison, says Dr. SHRADY, where he can earn something for society. The objection to this treatment of murderers is that it don't pay. It is cheaper to hang them than it is to keep them for the benefit of society. Nevertheless, there is a class of murderers whom it is useless to hang, in so far as the subserving any moral purpose is concerned. Take KEMMLER, for instance. KEMMLER was a man low down in the moral scale. Without any moral perceptions worth speaking of, he was unable to withstand temptation. Of this class of men society has more than a plenty. They exist not by virtue of any fault of society, but simply because they were born morally short-sighted. It is quite as reasonable to imprison a kleptomaniac as it is to hang men who have become murderers as the consequence of the denseness of their moral understanding. Such men are more to be pitied than blamed. In the case of BIRCHALL we do not seem have a man who is morally deficient. He did not commit murder under the sudden impulse of temptation. He seems to have deliberately planned the taking off of BENWELL. He had plenty of time to consider the moral aspects of the act. In the case of BIRCHALL, we do not have a fit subject for philanthropy. Nothing is to be gained by imprisoning him for life that he should have an opportunity to cultivate moral consciousness. He does not belong to the stripe of murderers of which KEMMLER was a type, and hence is not susceptible of moral betterment. BIRCHALL'S guilt established beyond a doubt, let him be hanged.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Thursday, November 6th, has been proclaimed Thanksgiving-day in the Dominion, and the official notification has appeared in the Government Gazette.

We publish an interview with Sir GEORGE BADEN-POWELL, M. P., who is now en route to British Columbia, as published in the New York Herald. Some eastern journals profess to attach considerable importance to Sir GEORGE'S visit. It is understood that after acquiring all the information possible in Victoria on the Behring sea matter, that he will visit Newfoundland to investigate the situation of affairs there in respect to the French rights. The Quebec Telegraph says that "he has also instructions to interview the British Columbia Government in relation to immigration, a large vote for that purpose being inserted in their estimates of last year." Sir GEORGE, in appearance, is the picture of a plain, clear-headed politician, and is of a kindly disposition.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Chicago's World's Fair is already doomed to failure as a universal exhibition. France, Austria and Germany have signified that they will not send exhibits, as there could be no possible object in doing so in view of the United States tariff being designed to exclude and prohibit all importations from foreign countries. It does, indeed, seem absurd for a nation to pass a law practically prohibiting importations from other nations and then invite them to participate in a World's Fair. The French Exhibition is a protectionist country. But its tariff is consonant with the European continental system, not like the McKINLEY tariff, which is in many respects prohibitory of foreign commerce.

The enterprise of the Canadian papers in furnishing their readers with wood engravings of the jurors and witnesses in the BIRCHALL trial, while commendable in point of journalistic enterprise, has little to recommend it in an artistic sense. Some of the parties thus reproduced are almost certain to feel aggrieved. JAMES ATKINSON wears a full beard. The same quantity of hirsuteness attached to the face of JOHN FREDENBERG and the two would pass for twins. Their facial and cranial outlines are not dissimilar. The Kodak fiend got an excellent focus on Brakeman GEO. HAY, but when he snapped his instrument of torture on Miss CROMWELL he simply produced a terror. When Miss CROMWELL thus observes herself she will be hostile, and the Globe will simply catch it. In reproducing feminine faces, daily illustrated papers should make it a point to do more than be just to their fair subjects. It would vastly increase their circulation.

The Ottawa Free Press very properly declares that while Col. CARADOC HERBERT is personally acceptable as commandant of the Canadian militia, his appointment to that office is a mistake. There is no occasion for it. Col. POWELL, the acting commandant, is a capable officer and should be left in charge, until the clause of the Militia Act which requires that the commandant of our shall be an imperial officer could be repealed. Experience has shown, continues the Press, that British army officers do not make successful commanders of Canadian militia. They do not understand our people and are almost certain to get into trouble. By sending across the Atlantic for an officer to succeed General MIDDLETON, our Tory ministers have declared in effect that there is no Canadian fit to command the militia. Is this not an insult to Canadians generally and to our militia officers particularly? Mr. MULOCK should next session press his bill to repeal that humiliating clause in the Militia Act which excludes Canadians from the position of militia commandant. Let the Tories oppose the repeal of the clause if they will. Let us see whether the Tories are willing to declare by their votes in parliament that the people of Canada are an inferior race, or a nation of flunkies who cannot produce a man capable of commanding a militia force.

THE M'KINLEY BILL.

Sir John Shouts Defiance—Canada Will Find Other Markets.

A special of the 2nd inst. from Halifax, N. S., says: Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir John Thompson, one of the cabinet, addressed a big gathering of the Conservative party here this afternoon. This was the first speech in his forty-six years of political life that the premier has made here.

"What have we to gain," he asked, "from joining the United States with its foreign ignorance, communism, atheism and socialism? In passing the McKinley bill the Americans have taken their course. We will take ours. We will seek markets at home and elsewhere in lieu of theirs." He said nobody wanted annexation, and independence was impracticable.

A large gathering of friends of the cabinet ministers visiting in Halifax was held yesterday near Rockingham, 1,500 persons being present. Speeches were made by Sir John Thompson, C. H. Tupper, Sir John Macdonald and T. E. Kenney, M. P. They all announced themselves as favoring reciprocity with the United States, and spoke of the efforts the Dominion government had made in that direction, particularly referring to Sir Charles' last visit to Washington City, when he was authorized to negotiate for reciprocity and a full settlement of the fisheries dispute. Sir John Thompson announced the present policy of the government, owing to the tariff changes in the United States, to be to subsidize fast steamship lines on the Pacific and Atlantic, thus giving the Canadian people facilities for transporting their produce and manufactures in a rapid manner to the populous regions of China, Japan and Austria, and to the great markets of Europe.

SITTING BULL

Believed by Some Persons to be an Old West Point Cadet.

Thomas F. McLain was admitted to West Point in 1844 from Missouri. There seemed to be something strange and solitary in his composition. He was full of strange moods and none of his classmates were able to understand what manner of man he was. He was studious and got along nicely in his class, but had few friends. His only bad habit was drink. Two or three times he was disciplined for intoxication. McLain was a dark-skinned, black-eyed young fellow, with a great shock of black, coarse hair. His resemblance to a buffalo was so striking that all the cadets called him "Bison McLain." By that name he was known as long as he remained at West Point, which was not a great while, for his habit of sneaking liquor into his quarters and drinking more thereof than was good for him finally caused his expulsion. The Mexican war broke out soon afterward and we heard that Bison McLain had started for the scene of conflict. But at Galveston he became involved in a quarrel with a planter and killed him, and to escape justice fled to New Mexico and Arizona.

Capt. Paige, who was at West Point with him, was a member of a surveying party sent to explore the Gila river twenty years later. He claimed to have found Bison McLain in Arizona, a minor chief of the Mojaves, living as an Indian and known as White Bull. That was in 1863.

In 1867 there was a pitched battle between the Mojaves and a detachment of troops in the Gila river country. The troops were defeated because of the masterly tactics displayed by the Indians. The officers were surprised and astonished at the familiarity with the art of war displayed by their foe, and were at a loss to account for it till they heard rumors that the Mojave war chief, or captain, was an ex-cadet at West Point military academy. It is believed that later on McLain went North and joined the Sioux, and is Sitting Bull.

It is said Sitting Bull is a medicine chief and not a war chief at all, but how erroneous this is must appear from consideration of his great campaigns in the last fifteen years. Were Custer alive he would not say Sitting Bull was a medicine chief. Custer found to his cost that Sitting Bull knew the art of war. Crook learned the same thing. There has always been a mystery about Sitting Bull. Major McLaughlin of the army says that in his opinion Sitting Bull is a white man, and familiar with both French and English. Col. Taylor of Washington city has written a little book to show that Sitting Bull was a white man, educated by the Jesuits in Canada. That would account for his knowledge of English and French, but it would not account for his familiarity with the art of war as taught at West Point—a familiarity which has enabled him to anticipate precisely what his foe, the United States troops, would do at any particular crisis.—Seattle Telegraph.

SPORTING NOTES.

Brief Resume of Sporting Matters Here and Elsewhere.

On Saturday afternoon the hose coupling contests and races at the agricultural grounds, in spite of the wet weather, drew a good crowd. The results were as follows: Hose coupling contest, two men with 500 feet of hose—G. Leddingham and W. Ahern, 1; W. Deasy and E. W. Whitcombe, 2; L. G. Burns and C. Bush, 3. Hose coupling contest, one man with 500 feet of hose—W. Deasy, 1; L. G. Burns, 2. Quarter mile race—Harrison, 1; W. Deasy, 2. Pipe race—W. Deasy, 1; L. G. Burns, 2. One mile amateur—W. F. Blythe, 1; W. Mackay, 2. The judges were—Chief Ackerman, John Braden, J. R. McKenzie and W. Lorimer. These hose contests would be a good feature for picnics, for beside being very interesting events, they give good exercise to the department.

BIG GUN FIRING.

On Saturday afternoon No. 4 battery had their annual firing practise. Corporal Francis made 12 points, heading the list. Although the light was bad, good shooting was made.

PROF. FOSTER'S BENEFIT.

A fairly filled house assembled on Saturday evening at the Victoria theatre, at the benefit of Prof. Foster, who is opening a gymnasium at the old Y.M.C.A. rooms. The exhibitions were first class, and very interesting, the audience being well pleased. Prof. Foster is certainly a good teacher, and his school will no doubt be well patronized.

WESTMINSTER WINS.

The Westminster-Vancouver lacrosse match, was played on Saturday at Westminster in a steady downpour of rain. In spite of this, however, a good game was played, and Westminster won by two goals to none. Several bets were made on the result, the Vancouver men backing their favorites, and losing the cash with a good grace.

A Disagreeable Day.

It may not be a matter of news, but it is a matter of fact, that the wind and weather to-day has been something awful. A driving rain, which did not fall as ordinary rain does, but came down obliquely with the streets, in a manner which bid defiance to umbrellas, made pedestrianism a severe and unpleasant task. The wind blew in furious gusts, wrecking umbrellas, and taking unpardonable liberties with the ladies skirts. Fortunately it has not been cold, so the discomfort was to some degree lessened. People who were compelled to be out took the disagreeable weather with a good grace, thanking their stars it is not often thus in Victoria.

"Montserrat" Lime Fruit Juice is the standard summer drink throughout England, and is delightfully cool and refreshing.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING AT THE CHURCHES.

St John's Church Beautifully Decorated—Sermon by Rev. P. Jenns—The Offerings for a New Organ—Services at the Reformed Episcopal and Christ Churchs.

Lord of the harvest once again,
We thank Thee for the ripened grain.

The Established Church [illegible] vices. These services are held as a token of appreciation of the benefits and pleasures that the past summer has conferred on the human family. The ceremonies are for the purpose of thanking the Almighty for the harvest he has seen fit to confer on the farmers, and does not conflict with the thanksgiving day service held in November to thank God for all his goodness.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

St. John's Church, the congregation of which are noted for their taste in decorating, was no exception to the general rule yesterday, and everybody who attended the church had a good word for the ladies who devoted their time to make their pretty little edifice prettier than ever. The first impression formed on entering the church was that indeed the people of Victoria and Victoria district have been favored with a bountiful harvest this year. All the decorations were in harmony with the occasion, field produce having been used abundantly. Going to the chancel one had to pass through an arch made entirely of wheat, oats and barley, used alternately. The arch was splendidly built, and showed that much time and pains had been spent on its construction. On either side of the background of the chancel are emblems representing Peace and Plenty. The former made of wheat, and the latter composed of a large cluster of beautiful fruit, in a basket of straw. Around the sides of the church were also bunches of wheat, oats, barley and fruit, while the choir rails were covered with articles that make a farmer's heart bound with joy. The lectern was crowded with the same class of articles as were used in constructing the other decorations while the font was covered with fruit of all kinds.

The decorations, however, were not the only things that the ladies had attended to, for the choir had also spent a considerable time in practising appropriate hymns, and they were entirely successful in rendering them perfectly.

The morning services were opened by singing the hymn:

"Come then thankful people come,
Raise the song of harvest home."

And everything in the services, sermon, lessons and hymns were specially intended to thank God for His blessings.

The morning sermon was preached by Rev. P. Jenns who eloquently referred to the bountiful harvest that had been conferred on the people of this province every year. The exhibitions that had been held during the past week, he said, were good signs that our community stands second to none on the continent for agricultural products. In conclusion the reverend gentleman said that the offerings at both morning and evening services were to go towards the formation of an organ fund, and he asked all to contribute liberally, as they wanted an organ that would cost $4000. The present instrument was built in 1859, for a church in Leice by a gentleman whose name he could not remember. But on account of the breaking out of the war the charitable gentlemen could not give it to that church as it was never built. But hearing that a diocese was to be started in British Columbia he sent it out here and it was intended for Christ Church cathedral. That church, which was then a small building on the hill, the present site of the church, had an organ, however, and so the kind act of the English gentleman benefitted St. John's church which was being built at that time. The organ was then placed in its present position, and has been there ever since. But it was now unequal to the requirements of the church, and he and the wardens wanted to get a good one so that it could be placed in a handsome edifice that, he hoped would occupy the present site of St. John's church beforelong. The present organ was the offering of a single man, given to a people to whom he was a total stranger, and he gave wholly for the love of God. The church, however, no longer stood in need of charitable men in the old country, as men who were then penniless are now wealthy. The organ had taken a part in everything that occurred in the church, pealing in praise to God Sunday after Sunday. It had taken part to peal out the happy wedding march and also the dirge to the dead, when members were being carried to their last resting place. Some people might say "they are getting extravagant, and they ought to be satisfied with what they have got." But people must not be satisfied with what they have got; they must try and get more. Tourists came to Victoria from San Francisco, and they went back and said "Victoria is beautiful even in death," but it is different now, and the people are beginning to wake up and adorn their city with beautiful churches, business buildings and residences, and St. John's church must keep pace with her increasing population.

The Rev. P. Jenns preached in the evening and the collections were most liberal, showing that the congregation takes a deep interest in the work of the church.

REFORMED EPISCOPAL.

The Reformed Episcopal church was not decorated this year as formerly, but the singing showed that a great deal of time and labor must have been spent in practising. Besides appropriate anthems, solos were sung by W. R. Higgins, Miss Mouatt and Mrs. Helmcken, and a trio by Mrs. Helmcken, Miss Mouatt and Mrs. W. R. Higgins. The singing was indeed splendid, the solos and the trio being particularly well rendered.

Rev. D. Reid preached the sermon, and referred to the splendid harvest of the past year. The good showing at the exhibition was a sign of God's kindness to this favored community. He also referred to the terrible famine that at present threatened Ireland, and also to the result of the last famine which, of course, he said was greatly assuaged by the overflow of abundance in other countries. Wars in the olden times were a great drawback to the ingathering of the harvest, but it is different now. The reason the ladies he said, had not decorated the church was because he thought people could thank God for what they had received without having their presents before their eyes. Sunday school children had to have pictures to learn from, but grown up people were past that.

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL.

The harvest festival held last Wednesday evening at Christ Church cathedral was repeated last evening, there being a much larger attendance than on the former occasion.

OUR GRAND OLD MAN.

Citizen Fell, the Kind Hearted Spiritualist—Climate and Character.

Dr. T. Cummings writes thus to the Golden Gate: After having spent twenty-five years travelling, studying and teaching the character and destiny of towns, cities, nations, continents, worlds, stars, animals and men, I find myself in British Columbia, on the historic island of Vancouver, and in the beautiful city of Victoria, seeking rest and recreation.

Climate is the mother of character and destiny of both cities and individuals. Victoria is blessed with a climate in some respects unequalled on this continent. The leading characteristics which this climate will produce are intellectual domesticity, love of art, recreation, moderation and longevity—with an absence of crime. The destiny of this city is to become the centre of learning—the residences of men of wealth and leisure, and the Mecca of the coast for tourists and invalids, as this climate possesses no superior in its power of recuperation for prostrated nerves or overtaxed brains.

Victoria is not behind the age in religious progress, and amongst her many religious bodies she has a flourishing society of Spiritualists. The members of this society are intelligent, temporate, charitable and faithful to the cause of morality and progress—in fact they are spiritualists. The society is highly favored with a president who is energetic, vigilant, scholarly, and always aggressively progressive. As Gladstone is the "grand old man" of statesmanship in England, so is ex-Mayor Fell the "grand old man" of liberal thought and progressive ideas of the province of British Columbia. It is often truthfully and pertinently remarked by prominent citizens of this city that he would have been long ere this at the head of this government, if it had not been for his Spiritualism, but citizen Fell, the kind-hearted Spiritualist, is a far greater man than Premier Fell would by any possibility have been.

A Warning.

MR. EDITOR,—It is a well-known fact that the majority of people are inclined to look upon a cold in the head as a matter of little importance—involving at the most only a temporary inconvenience. No more disastrous mistake was ever made. The neglected cold in the head is the source of the catarrhal affections with which about seven-tenths of the people of this country are afflicted, and catarrh itself is too often the preliminary stages to consumption and death. The symptoms of catarrh are manifold, but among them may be mentioned, offensive breath; dull, oppressive headache; offensive droppings from the nostrils into the throat and bronchial tubes; deafness or partial deafness; constant hawking and spitting; weak and watery eyes; a hacking cough and feeling of general debility; ringing in the ears and frequent dizziness. These are but a few of the more general symptoms, and those who experience them should lose no time in applying a remedy. Delays are proverbially dangerous, and in the case of this too prevalent disease may lead to death. We offer Nasal Balm to the public as a positive cure for cold in the head and for catarrh in all its forms and stages. Nasal Balm has been tested in thousands of cases, and the testimonials in our possession prove that it is all we claim for it. It has cured other sufferers, it will cure you. It is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable and does not require a douche, or any torturing instrument to apply it. Give it a trial and be convinced of its great efficacy. Sold by all dealers or sent post free on receipt of price 50c. for small or $1 for large size bottles by addressing Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont. daw

A NEW STEAMER.

The Westminster-Victoria Route—Completion of the Southern.

The Westminster Truth says that the C. P. N. Co. is preparing plans for a large steel steamer for the Westminster-Victoria route. The boat is to be built this winter and will be ready for the early spring traffic. The intention is to have all the Victoria [illegible] case by way of Westminster. The business men of Victoria do a large share of their shipping over the American lines to Tacoma and Seattle. The completion of the Southern railway will presently give them a near port at which to make transhipments, namely, New Westminster, and they have decided to take advantage of it. The change will to a large extent overcome the delays and other annoyances which now occur, and will be altogether favorable to the Victoria merchants. They will also bring and send their shipments over the C.P.R. to Westminster instead of to Vancouver as has usually been done in the past. When the Southern railway is complete, New Westminster will be the only point west of the mountains at which shipping can converge and have the choice of either the Canadian or American railways across the continent.

INLAND ITEMS AND NEWS.

Matters of Interest Adapted from the Inland Sentinel.

Mr. W. H. Whittaker, barrister, of Kamloops, has been appointed counsel for the crown at the assizes there this week. It is rarely that so young a member of the bar as Mr. Whittaker is entrusted with such an important task, and he is to be congratulated upon his preferment.

It is evident there are going to be a great many visitors to Kamloops during the exhibition. Almost all the hotel accommodation has been booked, while one hotel proprietor has applications for eighteen front rooms, light, airy, etc.

A grand ball will be given on the evening of the 10th inst. in the Pavilion under the auspices of the Agricultural Association.

His Honor Judge Walkem has been invited to open the Inland Agricultural Exhibition here on the 9th inst., and it is probable he will accede to the wishes of the association.

Mr. Chas. Semlin, M. P. P., was in Kamloops last Thursday, to attend a meeting of the directors of the Inland Agricultural Association. He reports that a large number of exhibits will be made from the country west of Kamloops.

During the past week the chain gang have been busily engaged in cleaning up the streets, and have succeeded in making quite an improvement in the appearance of the town.

The directors of the Inland Agricultural Association were in session on Thursday, making final preparations for the exhibition next week.

During the past week work trains have been busily engaged in strengthening the C. P. R. bridges in the vicinity of Kamloops.

Mr. E. C. Davidson's dog team is no more. Last week some evil-disposed person poisoned his setter bitch in his yard, and on Tuesday his valuable dog "Rox" met a similar fate. Should the miscreants be found out it will go hard with them.

Mr. F. S. Barnard, M. P., left Kamloops on Monday to visit his Cariboo constituents. He will return to town for the exhibition.

Rev. Mr. Shildrick returned to Kamloops from a visit to Nicola Valley last week, and reports everything looking very promising throughout that district. The ranges are well covered with grass and cattle are in excellent condition, while the crops of roots, grain, etc., are exceptionally good. Last Sunday at Nicola Lake, Mr. Sheldrick held Harvest Festival services in the Court House, which were well attended and proved of a very interesting nature. He returned home via the new Campbell's creek road; which he characterizes as the best piece of road in the country.

The machinery of the steamer Martin was taken from the boat last week and moved to Sproat, where Mr. J. A. Mara intends building a boat for the Kootenay Lake traffic. Mr. Mara is now at Sproat looking after the securing of timbers, etc., for the new craft. The boiler, engine and machinery, etc., of the Feerless has been left intact, as it is expected that next year the steamer will be required for traffic on the North Thompson river.

Agricultural Meeting.

At the annual meeting of the British Columbia Agricultural Society, held at the city hall on Saturday night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, D. R. Ker; 1st Vice-President, W. H. Ladner; 2nd Vice-President, S. Sandover (Saanich); Treasurer, G. A. McTavish; Secretary, C. E. Renouf; Trustees, J. Fell, N. Shakespeare, C. E. Renouf, G. A. McTavish and D. R. Ker; Directors, Messrs. Foster, W. Templeton, (Vancouver), A. H. Gillanders (Chilliwhack), E. Hutchinson (Ladners), H. D. Benson, J. Kirkland (Ladners), H. Webb, E. Wells (Chilliwhack), H. F. Page (Matsqui), J. McLagan (Vancouver), C. J. Major (New Westminster), Manager Sharp, Agassiz Experimental Farm; J. Braden, D. H. Ross, Dr. Milne, T. E. Carter, W. Dalby, J. Lorimer, E. John, M. Baker, Charles Hayward, William Templeman, Mayor Grant, J. T. McIlmoyl, R. Seabrook, T. J. Partridge, Wm. Thomson, J. H. Todd, W. J. Pendray, Wm. McKeown.

Beautiful Women.

The magical efforts of Wisdom's Robertine as a beautifer and preserver of the complexion have been attested by thousands of leading ladies of society and the stage. It is the only article ever discovered which gives a natural and beautiful tint to the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all roughness of the face and arms, leaving the skin soft, smooth and velvety. All remarks on its delightfuly cooling and refreshing properties, a distinction not found in any other similar article known. D. E. Campbell, agent.

Wellington Coal.

The old reliable coal and wood yard, office 42 Yates street, is now prepared to supply the market with the best New Wellington Coal.

HEATHORN & McINTOSH.

A Reason.

Through an error in classification, Mr. Phillips of this city was prevented from being awarded first prize for the best assortment of engraving, his work, as well as that of another exhibitor, not in the opinion of the judges, coming under the designation of engraving. Both, however, were recommended for prizes.

Bazaar at Esquimalt.

We understand that a bazaar in aid of the Esquimalt rectory fund will be held at the Blue Ribbon Hall, Esquimalt, on Saturday 18th. The band of H. M. S. Warspite by the kind permission of Admiral Hotham will perform during the afternoon. The managers of the tramway have also promised a free pass over their new line to all visitors to the bazaar.

Seized by Customs Officers.

A couple of seizures were made by the customs on Saturday of Chinese merchandise. One was composed of 85 packages of nut oil, rice flour and paper from Hong Kong. The invoices were false, being in the opinion of the appraisers much below the true value of the goods. The other seizure was one of two tons of rice meal imported from 'Frisco by a Chinese merchant here. The invoice in this case was also false. The goods will be held subject to an adjustment of the matter.

Wheat for the R. M. Co.

The steamer City of Kingston brought over 1600 hundred sacks of wheat on Saturday, in bond from the East for the Royal Milling Company of Victoria. The grain is of a superior quality and will make fine flour. It is to be hoped that the establishment of a flouring mill here will be the means of inspiring local farmers to raise wheat more extensively. Surely it can be grown as cheaply here as it can be in the East, when the long haul is considered.

Extensive Farmers.

A large lot of stock, farming implements, furniture, etc., arrived by the City of Kingston on Saturday evening in transit to Duncan's station. The shipment was two car loads, brought over the Northern Pacific from the east, and is imported by Basset Bros., two gentlemen farmers from the old country who have lately purchased Jas. Flett's farm at Duncan's. The gentlemen intend to prosecute farming on an extensive scale, being convinced that the climate and soil of Vancouver Island is specially adapted for that industry. As they have large capital and plenty of experience, there is no doubt about the result.

Encourage Local Talent.

The model steam engine and boiler at the exhibition was greatly admired by visitors. All Saturday afternoon Mr. C. M. Fox, the builder, had the little engine running under a full head of steam, and the readiness with which it could be reversed and worked showhow faithful had been the construction. A special medal should be offered for such work as this, as the inventive and constructive ability of the Victorian youth would then be encouraged. The whole of the little machine shown, except the pressure guage and one or two of the smaller pipes, was made entirely by Mr. Fox. Perhaps next year even better and more elaborate models will be shown, if a generous prize is given.

Boring for Coal.

Major Vaughan has been boring for coal at Kanaka Creek, 10 miles from Westminster, for some time. A few days ago the drill tapped salt water strongly impregnated with lime, and the pressure was strong enough throw the water up with force sufficient to lift the machinery. The flow continued only a short time and left a white crust of salt and lime on everything it touched. A few days previous a small flow of gas was tapped and this still continues. By covering the hole with an inverted can with an aperture for the escape of the gas and touching a match thereto a strong jet of blue flame is obtained. The cores taken up show a large number of small seams of coal of about half an inch in thickness. Major Vaughan thinks it not impossible that a flow of oil may be obtained, and he is very sanguine of reaching a deposit of coal of the necessary thickness for mining. Should he be successful it would be a great thing for New Westminster, and all will heartily wish him success.

A Letter's Journey.

A letter addressed to P. Odlem, Coburg, Ont., Canada, left Tokio, Japan, in May last. Mr. Odlum was lecturing when the letter got to Cobourg, and it was sent on the chase following the scent by the following route. It went first to Gooderich, from Gooderich to Wingham, and from Wingham to Kincardine. Kincardine sent it to the dead letter office. There it was opened, and something in it suggested that Mr. Odlum might be in Vancouver, and the letter was therefore sent there. Not being called for at Vancouver, it was returned to Tokio. It went to the general post office there, and no one calling for it, it was sent to the Japan dead letter office. After it had rested awhile there the authorities put their brown seal with the legend, "Officially sealed, Department of Communication of Japan," over the place where the envelope had been opened, and started it back for Vancouver, and the letter arrived on the Batavia, and reached Professor Odlum's hands after having been nearly six months travelling about in search of him. The envelope was completely covered with post office stamp marks.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!

STOP IT NOW,

SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days, I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

REGULAR QUARTERLY MEETING

The Board of Trade Discusses Matters of Importance.

The regular quarterly meeting of the British Columbia Board of Trade was held in the board rooms, Bank of British Columbia, this afternoon, [illegible] in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and accepted, the secretary read a number of communications, among which was one from the manager of the C. P. R. Telegraph lines in regard to the complaint laid by the board with Sir Hector Langevin in regard to their service.

The board also discussed the improvements necessary at the outer harbor, the neglect of the Department of Marine in regard to lights, beacons and buoys on the coast of Vancouver Island, and also the necessity of having better telegraphic communication with the United States. The lengthening of the graving dock and other matters of interest to the Province were also taken up, but nothing had been disposed of up to the time of going to press.

STRUCK WATER.

An Artesian Well Reached at Martins---An Abundant Flow.

After a long and somewhat discouraging work, the efforts of the Government in boring for an artesian well at the ranch of Mr. G. B. Martin, M. P. P., Shuswap, have been rewarded by success.

Since the appointment of Mr. Wm. Morrison to the management of the work it has been prosecuted vigorously, the rock being bored through at the rate of 40 feet a week of late.

Yesterday Government Agent Hussey received a telegraphic message from Mr. Morrison stating that a flow of water had been struck at a depth of 512 feet. A message received this morning in answer to an inquiry of Mr. Hussey states that there is an abundance of water, which now rises in a stream of seven feet above the surface.

The result of this experiment will be of incalculable value in solving the problem of reclaiming much of the at present uncultivated land within the dry belt of British Columbia, and the Government is to be congratulated upon the promising outcome of its efforts in this direction.—Sentinel.

For San Francisco.

The steamer City of Puebla left for San Francisco this morning with the following passengers from this port: Mrs. Gray, B. Barnard, E. Beaven, William Miller and three children, W. Wilkins, P. Murphy, Miss M. E. Wise, Mrs. C. Rosche, Mrs. E. O'Connell, Mrs. T. S. Mimott, Miss B. Baldwin, C. Poingdestre, F. Braner, W. Stalker, W. Williams, D. M. Baldwin, Geo. Howe, Thos. Howe and Jas. H. Peek.

Identification Needed.

It has been suggested by several people that if the articles receiving prizes at the exhibitions were labelled with the exhibitor's name and the locality where the exhibit was grown, raised, or made, much good information would thereby be given. Strangers and others would then know just what part of the province produced certain things of the best class. The idea is one that it would be worth while considering.

Goes to Seattle.

Mr. A. J. Clark, for several years connected with the telephone system of this city, has been appointed manager of the Seattle branch of the Pacific Coast Telephone and Telegraph company. Mr. Clark is a practical man, and one who thoroughly understands his business. In taking the position offered at Seattle he is bettering himself greatly financially, and his many friends in Victoria will be pleased to hear of his good fortune.

The Danube Arrives.

The Danube, Captain Walbran, arriven at the outer wharf at 11:30 p. m. on Saturday. She brought 12,000 cases of salmon, 313 bales of hay and some bales of furs from New Westminster, to which place she had gone from Vancouver on Friday morning. The whole of the salmon was transhipped this morning to the City of Puebla for the English and Australian market. The Danube is a substantial, well built iron steamer of 886 tons, steams 10 knots, and is an excellent seaboat. When fitted with the comfortable cabin accommodation contemplated by the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company, she will be a valuable acquisition to the traveling public on the northern waters of this province.

Quickly Fatigued.

"It makes me tired," said a gentleman yesterday who, although a resident of this city by choice, is largely interested in other parts of the province. "What distresses you?" said the person addressed. "Why, every Victorian who comes here, almost as soon as he has shaken hands, says, 'Well, what's doing? Things are very dull now, aren't they?' and seems quite disappointed when honesty compels one to say that that is not the case." "If that is all," replied his friend, "I would let it annoy me. Why, in Victoria they have scarcely anything else to do but to tell strangers that 'Vancouver is a go,' and when they can't find a stranger to listen to the yarn they tell it to one another. They have repeated it so often that they have got to believe it is true and, therefore, naturally are a little flabbergasted when they come to Vancouver and see the bustle on the wharves and streets in this city."—News-Advertiser.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited, and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

Accident.

A miner named W. H. Vater, working in No. 3 pit of the New V. C. Co. on Saturday morning met with an accident by being jammed between a box and the rib. Dr. Praeger, colliery surgeon, was called in and found him to be somewhat bruised, but not otherwise injured.

Port Crescent Railroad.

Bids are called for for the clearing of the first twelve miles of the right-of-way of the Victoria, Port Crescent & Chehalis railroad. The engineers will resume the location of the road, commencing to-day at the point where they left off several weeks ago, twenty-four miles south and west of this place.

Too Much Wind.

The members of No. 2 and No. 4 batteries gathered at Finlayson's Point this morning to continue the annual firing competition, but the wind was altogether too much for the target which was blown away ere it could be fairly anchored. The competition was accordingly postponed until finer weather.

Narrow Escape.

One of the large wooden ornaments on the Colonist building was blown off at about half past three this afternoon, and fell with a terrific crash within a foot of Mr. A. C. Howe, who was passing at the time. The big piece of wood went clear through the sidewalk. Had it struck Mr. Howe, instant death must have been the result.

Hospital Consolidation.

At a meeting of the members of the French Benevolent Society, held on Sunday, the agreement with the Royal Jubilee Hospital was ratified, and all that is now required is an order-in-council to sanction the amalgamation of the French with the Jubilee Hospital. The consolidation will prove mutually advantageous.

Four Convictions.

Three drunks occupied the attention of the police magistrate this morning, after which L. Peterson, a sailor, was called for obtaining $4.25 from Thomas Tugwell of the Colonial hotel. The prisoner pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to one month at hard labor. The prisoner lately returned from a sealing cruise and was paid off Sept. 30th, but spent his money and after staying at Tugwell's hotel for a week gave the prosecutor an order on the owner of the schooner for $10 saying that he had not been paid yet.

Hands off.

Among the visitors at the exhibition on Saturday evening was a couple who were evidently not acquainted with the tricks of the city boys, who noticing that they were a little "spooney" decided to have a lark with them. For this purpose a placard with "hands off" printed on it was obtained and pinned on to the back of the man. His companion noticed it however, and took it off. The boys, however, were not to be outwitted, so they again obtained the placard and put it on the lady's dress where it remained all evening, to the amusement of everyone who saw it. An officer, however, took pity on the couple and notified them, after which they hurriedly left the building.

Died This Morning.

Wm. Craft, the well known dry goods merchant of Douglas street, was called upon this morning to mourn the death of his wife, who died at an early hour of pneumonia. She had been very low for several days, and her demise was not wholly unexpected although it is a heavy blow to her family and her large number of friends in the city. She was exactly 37 years old at the time of her death, having passed away on the anniversary of her birthday. The deceased was a native of Bude, Cornwall, England, where her mother at present resides and which place she left 20 years ago to come to British Columbia with her uncle, R. Maynard, and her brother Wm. Bickford. She leaves besides her husband three young children who are hardly old enough to understand the terrible calamity that has befallen them. The funeral will take place from the family residence, Blanchard street on Wednesday at 2 o'clock and from St. John's church at 2:30.

TO ENLIST EASTERN CAPITAL.

Mr. Francis Bourchier Goes to New York and Boston on Financial Business.

While east some weeks ago, Mr. Francis Bourchier, of Bourchier, Croft & Mallette, was struck with the fact that large amount of capital was available at rates far below what is paid here. The result of his visit was that negotiations were entered into, and there if no doubt but what ere long considerable amounts of eastern capital will flow this way.

Some preliminary business is necessary and to transact it, Mr. Bourchier leaves to-night for New York and Boston, over the C. P. R. Speaking to a TIMES reporter to-day, Mr. Bourchier said that loads of eastern capital could be obtained at 6 per cent. Loans at 3½ to 4 per cent. on gilt-edged securities were often negotiated on Wall street, and he was confident that capital could be enlisted there to develop this section of the world which is now being brought to the attention of the eastern money kings.

It had been Mr. Bourchier's intention to leave on Saturday for the east, but he waited over until to-night, as he will thus have the pleasure of Senator Platt's company on the trip. The senator has been on the Sound selecting a site for a U. S. naval station, and will return to New York over the C. P. R. Mr. Bourchier will be absent on the trip about a month, and while away will advertise Victoria and the advantages of Vancouver Island in no small degree.
